SEBAC Statement: Preparing for a New Governor—Finally Our Voice Can be Heard

CSU-AAUP wants to hear your budget-saving ideas

Connecticut has faced considerable budget battles in the past and members of the State Employees Bargaining Agent Coalition (SEBAC) unions have always faced those challenges by working to achieve the highest quality services with the highest cost savings for the state. During the last two administrations, our ideas have mostly fallen on deaf ears. As we face the most difficult fiscal crisis in recent history, our members are looking forward to working with a new administration to share ideas about how public structures can help thrust our state's economy out of recession.

Toward that end, SEBAC has created a process by which our members can exchange their ideas and generate proposals for preserving fundamental public structures. We believe we can preserve those that are necessary to our economic recovery while enhancing government efficiency. SEBAC hopes that the new Malloy Administration will not only be open to our members' ideas, but will direct managers to actively support and encourage the process.

Newly formed subcommittees will provide a system for bringing workers together across bargaining units to develop real solutions. (Read more of SEBAC's statement here.)
